As a follow-up to introductory watercolor courses or private practice, this 6-week long curriculum advances research into technical, formal, conceptual, and theoretical approach to painting as an expressive art form. The emphasis is for each student to reproduce the short demonstration led by the instructor and either continue or begin a self-designed project that focuses on exploring the finer techniques of mark-making, color theory, and composition. Extracurricular practice and preparation is highly recommended. In addition to demonstrations and free work time, classes are structured for open discussion and critiques. On the final day, a class presentation will be held for all students to display and celebrate their pieces. *Note: Those who don't meet the prerequisite may still attend the class. Please contact me with email with your portfolio and reason for consideration at info@ianmitchellwallace.com.
Supply list at the gallery.

Class Code: (39900)

In this 6-hour workshop, students will create a beautiful stained glass mosaic owl, 14' x 8". Students will learn basic skills including scoring, breaking and shaping colored glass using a pattern and the taping method or the front mounting technique of adhering the glass to the base. Students will choose from eight templates that teach different lessons in cutting and arranging as well as different color relationships. The best part of this class is that even the beginner will walk away with a new set of skills and a foundation in stained glass mosaics. The class encourages practice of a new craft through repetitive learning. Students walk away from this class with the knowledge to take their art form to the next level! Bring a sack lunch and some water/beverage.

All supplies will be provided for a $115.00 supply fee, payable to the instructor.

The goal of this course is to gain an understanding of how to render and assign color to surface contours of the body with drawing and painting media. During the first half of each class, students are instructed about specific anatomical portions, then gain experience from drawing and painting the live figure for both short and extended poses. The emphasis is for each student to reproduce short demonstrations lead by the instructor and apply those techniques while observing the model, including how to build skin tones and its interaction with colored light and performative aspects of bodily movement. Students are also encouraged to continue or begin a self-designed project that focuses on exploring the finer techniques of figuration. They will develop an ability to visualize the model in order to comprehend the interface between seeing and expressive replication, determined by a variety of contemporary drawing strategies. While previous drawing or painting experience is preferred, any enthusiastic student is welcome. Extracurricular practice and preparation is highly recommended so that class time is effectively utilized. In addition to demonstrations and guided work time, classes are structured for open questions, discussion, and critiques. Painting experience preferred. There is an additional model fee (assessed depending on class size).

Supply list at the gallery.
